

South Suburban
PARKS AND RECREATION

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Aug. 8, 2013

Jamie DeBartolomeis

303 483 7016

South Suburban Recognizes Sculptors and Celebrates

New Sculptures at Goodson Recreation Center

Local sculptors Bryon Bren and Shohini Ghosh were the guests of honor at a recent reception to celebrate their sculptures on display at Goodson Recreation Center, as part of South Suburban Park and Recreation District's Art-on-Loan program.

The new sculptures, both available for sale, are at the entrance of South Suburban's Goodson Recreation Center, and will remain there for a year. Goodson Recreation Center is located at 6315 S. University Blvd. in Centennial.

Photos from the reception: (also attached)

Shohini Ghosh and her sculpture, How Do you Feel Today?

-more-

Bryon Bren's sculpture, fibonacci due

Sculptors Bryon Bren and Shohini Ghosh relax next to Ghosh's sculpture at the entrance of Goodson Recreation Center.

For more information about South Suburban's Art on Loan program contact Vickie Willis at 303-483-7072.

About the artists: Shohini has been a professional sculptor since 1993 and was a lecturer of sculpture in India. She now resides in Highlands Ranch. She works with a variety of mediums including bronze, fiber glass, iron, copper, bronze, paper fiber and aluminum.

Bryon is a self-taught welder and artist, and has a Bachelors degree in Computer Science and Math. His passion is to build things; the scale or medium does not matter. He's worked with matchsticks, I-Beams, silverware and software. He and his wife have two daughters and they are "living the dream" in south suburban Denver.

###